2008-09 OREGON STATE MEN'S BASKETBALL SEASON REVIEW

AMAZING TURNAROUND ENDS WITH 2009 COLLEGE BASKETBALL INVITATIONAL TITLE

The first year of the Craig Robinson era is one Oregon State fans will likely always remember. What started out with the hiring of Robinson, the 20th head coach in Oregon State men's basketball history, on April 7, 2008, culminated with the Beavers beating all odds to capture the College Basketball Invitational title with a game three victory over UTEP on April 3, 2009.

The title marked the first postseason championship in program history and capped one of the most remarkable turnarounds in collegiate men's basketball. After a losing campaign during the 2007-08 season, Oregon State finished the year as one of the most improved teams in college basketball as the Beavers won 12 more games than the previous season, ranking the Beavers behind Missouri (+15) and LSU (+14) as the most improved teams last year.

The appearance by the Beavers in the CBI marked the 21st postseason appearance in school history for Oregon State as the championship run was highlighted by back-to-back overtime victories over Vermont and Stanford and concluded with a thrilling 81-73 victory over UTEP.

Even before the memorable title run, Oregon State surpassed all expectations as the Beavers, picked by nearly everyone to finish last in the Pac-10 Conference, came away with seven Pac-10 victories to finish seventh in the league.

During conference play, the Beavers swept four league games from Cal and Stanford, marking the first time since the 1989-90 season Oregon State swept the Bay Area schools.

A remarkable overtime victory over USC, the first league win of the season for Oregon State, and a stirring come-back victory at Washington State also had fans thinking something special might be in store for the program.

Perhaps the most significant sign of the reemergence of Oregon State hoops; however, was the annual Civil War game against Oregon at legendary Gill Coliseum. In front of a nearly sold-out crowd, Oregon State captured a 57-54 victory over its rival, signaling the return of men's basketball to the forefront of the minds of members of Beaver Nation.

While exceeding expectations on the court, the 2008-09 season saw Oregon State men's basketball take hold of the national spotlight as Robinson and the team were featured in numerous national media publications and the subjects of interviews that aired on ESPN, CBS Sunday Morning and everywhere in between.

OREGON STATE FINISHES FIFTH ON THE LIST OF GREATEST PAC-10 SINGLE-SEASON TURNAROUNDS

With seven conference wins, Oregon State finished the league race with a mark of 7-11 after the Beavers went winless in league play in 2007-08. The seven-win improvement last year tied Oregon State for fifth on the list of biggest Pac-10 improvements from one season to the next.

SETH TARVER AND THE 1-3-1 WREAK HAVOC ON OPPOSING OFFENSES

Oregon State's 1-3-1 zone defense received a lot of attention last year and the guard at the top of the zone, Seth Tarver, is a big reason why. The junior finished second in the Pac-10 Conference at 1.8 steals per game overall and led the league with 2.0 steals per game in conference play. With Tarver leading the league in steals in conference games, it was the first time an Oregon State player led conference play in steals since Gary Payton finished first in 1990.

In addition to Tarver, the rest of the Oregon State defense did its part as well as the Beavers ranked second in steals in conference games, averaging 7.2 steals per game, and finished fourth overall at 6.7 steals per contest.

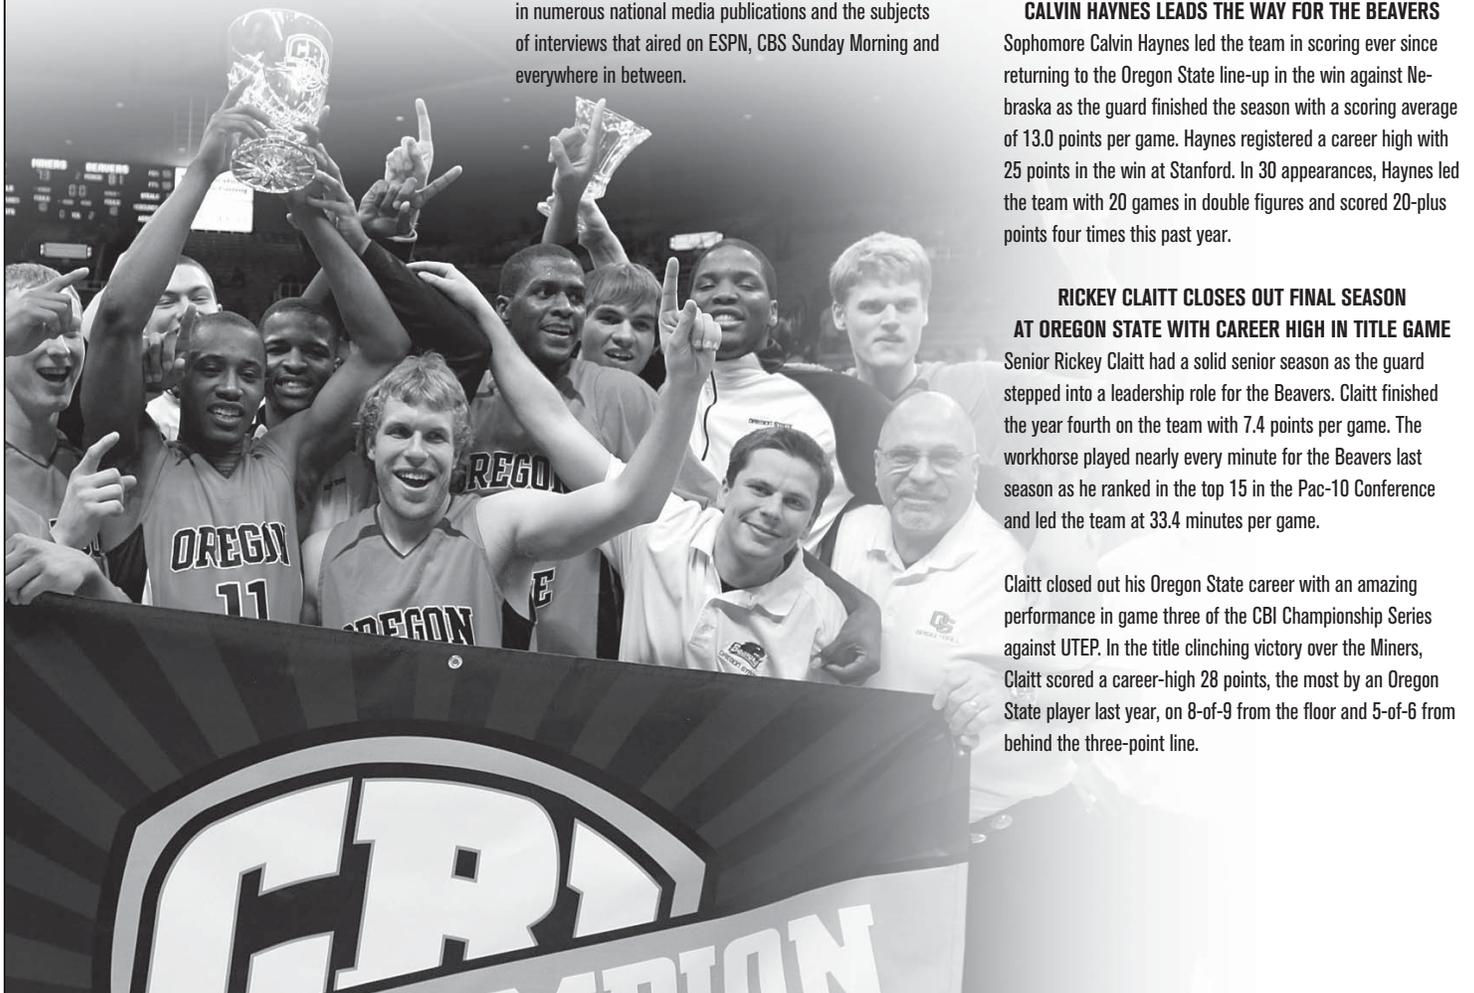

CALVIN HAYNES LEADS THE WAY FOR THE BEAVERS

Sophomore Calvin Haynes led the team in scoring ever since returning to the Oregon State line-up in the win against Nebraska as the guard finished the season with a scoring average of 13.0 points per game. Haynes registered a career high with 25 points in the win at Stanford. In 30 appearances, Haynes led the team with 20 games in double figures and scored 20-plus points four times this past year.

RICKEY CLAITT CLOSES OUT FINAL SEASON AT OREGON STATE WITH CAREER HIGH IN TITLE GAME

Senior Rickey Claitt had a solid senior season as the guard stepped into a leadership role for the Beavers. Claitt finished the year fourth on the team with 7.4 points per game. The workhorse played nearly every minute for the Beavers last season as he ranked in the top 15 in the Pac-10 Conference and led the team at 33.4 minutes per game.

Claitt closed out his Oregon State career with an amazing performance in game three of the CBI Championship Series against UTEP. In the title clinching victory over the Miners, Claitt scored a career-high 28 points, the most by an Oregon State player last year, on 8-of-9 from the floor and 5-of-6 from behind the three-point line.

One area in which Claitt dramatically improved from the year before was from the field, where the senior hit 56.0 percent of his shots including an impressive 47.1 percent from behind the arc (41-of-87).

Prior to his career performance against UTEP, he scored a then career-high 21 points against Montana State. Claitt surpassed his previous career best of 11 points in the first half alone, scoring 13. Claitt followed it up by going a perfect 5-of-5 from the field in the win against Fresno State, including a perfect 3-of-3 from behind the arc.

SCHAFTENAAR EXCELS AS THE "POINT-CENTER"

The term "point-center" entered the Pac-10 Conference lexicon with the arrival of Craig Robinson at Oregon State as Roeland Schaftenaar played the position last season and was pivotal in leading the Beavers to 18 victories.

In Pac-10 Conference games, Schaftenaar finished No. 7 in assist-to-turnover ratio. His 63 assists and 39 turnovers gave him a 1.6 ratio.

The "point-center" led Oregon State to its first Bay Area sweep since the 1992-93 season as the Beavers captured wins at California (69-65) and Stanford (77-62). In the wins, he averaged 20.0 points, 5.0 assists and 2.0 steals as he turned in an impressive 10-to-1 assist to turnover ratio for the weekend while earning Pac-10 Conference Player of the Week honors.

OREGON STATE FINISHES AMONG NATION'S BEST IN FIELD GOAL PERCENTAGE

After struggling from the field last season, indicators show the new offensive system in place allowed Oregon State to dramatically improve its shooting numbers as the Beavers finished the season ranked among the nation's best from the field.

For the year, Oregon State shot 46.7 percent and ranked sixth in the Pac-10 and 46th in the NCAA. In fact, the 46.7 percent is the highest field goal percentage for Oregon State since the 1992 season.

Oregon State was especially efficient within the three-point arc as the Beavers hit 52.6 percent of their two-point shots to rank 31st in the country according to kenpom.com.

The Beavers shot 56.5 percent from the field against UTEP in game three, marking the 14th time Oregon State shot 50 percent or better from the field. In fact, the Beavers shot 58 percent or better from the floor on five occasions this past season. The season prior, Oregon State shot 50 percent or better on only two occasions.

THREE OREGON STATE PLAYERS EARN ALL-CONFERENCE HONORS

Oregon State placed three players on the all-conference teams as Calvin Haynes and Roeland Schaftenaar earned honorable mention all-league honors while Seth Tarver was named to the all-defensive team.

The all-conference honors are the first for Haynes and Schaftenaar during their careers. Haynes led the team in scoring while Schaftenaar, who played the "point-center" role in offensive sets, finished the conference season seventh in assist-to-turnover ratio.

Tarver earned his first honorable mention all-defensive nod after the junior guard became the first Oregon State player to lead the league in steals since Gary Payton during the 1989-90 season. Tarver recorded 60 steals to average 1.8 per contest as the guard averaged 2.0 steals per game in conference play.

CRAIG ROBINSON NAMED USBWA DISTRICT IX COACH OF THE YEAR

Leading an impressive turnaround, Oregon State head men's basketball coach Craig Robinson was named the U.S. Basketball Writers Association District IX Coach of the Year.

In his first season at Oregon State, Robinson led the Beavers to the fifth-best single season turnaround in Pac-10 history, guiding the squad to seven league wins after going winless in Pac-10 play a year ago.

Season highlights for the Beavers included sweeping the Bay Area schools for the first time since the 1989-90 season as well as winning seven conference games for the first time since the 2004-05 campaign (8).

Under Robinson's leadership, one area in which the Beavers dramatically improved from is the field, where Oregon State is currently shooting 46.7 percent for the year after shooting 37.4 percent a year ago. The 46.7 percent effort from the floor was the best percentage for the Beavers since the 1992-93 season.
