1971-74: Cornerback

Any number of people from current players, ex-players, coaches at all levels or anyone who has ever met him could acknowledge that; it was national sports media personality Jim Rome who made that statement following an interview during the 2012 season.

Coach Riley could very well be the best guy in college football, but he is also ranks among the best coaches in the game. He owns the most wins ever at Oregon State with 81, the team has been ranked in the Associated Press Top 25 28 weeks, has coached players who have earned 31 All-American honors, and has had 30 NFL Draft picks.

The longest tenured coach in the Pac-12, in his 13th season, has a resume that sparkles with achievements. He was the 2008 American Football Coaches Association (AFCA), Pac-10 Conference and State of Oregon Coach of the Year, and his teams have appeared in the final Associated Press top-25 rankings in three of the last six seasons. In 2012 he was selected the AFCA Region Coach of the Year.

“You really want to play hard for him. He really empowers you as a player to play hard and play well and be creative. I have not seen a team that plays harder.”

— Jim Harbaugh, former NFL quarterback and current San Francisco 49ers head coach

The 60-year-old head coach has guided the Beavers to seven bowl games in the last 10 years. The Beavers are 5-2 with Riley at the helm in bowl games after he started the rejuvenation of the program during his first tenure in 1997 and '98 that subsequently made three postseason appearances. When he took control of the program in the winter of 1997, Oregon State was mired in a streak of 28 consecutive losing seasons. While his first two teams did not post winning marks, the competitiveness of the program increased dramatically and the foundation was laid for teams that would play in bowl games in 10 of the next 14 years.

Riley has 52 Pac-10/12 victories, which ranks 13th in the conference record book. Legendary coaches Jim Owens (Washington), Bruce Snyder (Cal, ASU), Rich Brooks (Oregon) and Dick Tomey (Arizona) are all within his reach for the 2013 season which would move him into the top-10 all-time for league wins.

He has also led his team to outstanding success in the classroom, where over the last five years Beavers have been honored by the league for academic achievement 64 times.

Riley's pro style approach to how he manages the program has paid dividends to players who have gone on to successful professional careers. Twenty-seven former Beavers who were coached by Riley were in the NFL as of July 1, 2013, including quarterbacks Matt Moore (Miami) and Derek Anderson (Carolina), running back Steven Jackson (St. Louis) and defensive back Brandon Browner (Seattle). Anderson, Jackson and Browner have each earned Pro Bowl honors.

Riley is the first coach in OSU history to win more than one NCAA-sanctioned bowl game at OSU, capturing the 2003 Las Vegas Bowl, the 2004 Insight Bowl, the 2006 and 2008 Sun Bowls, and the 2007 Emerald Bowl titles. He also is the first coach to lead the program to more than one winning conference season (5-3 in '04, 6-3 in '06, 6-3 in '07, 7-2 in '08 and 6-3 in '09 and 6-3 in '12) since 1969.

Under Riley, Oregon State has not been shy about playing challenging non-conference games. Since 2003, 10 of the 13 out of league road opponents have finished the season in the AP-top 25 (thru 2012 season). He's also experienced success against top-25 teams winning 12 games, including three times against teams ranked No. 3 or higher.

It's difficult to select the best season Oregon State has had with Riley at the helm. The 2006 team certainly is at the top of charts as it is the second club in

OSU history to capture at least 10 victories. The Beavers won eight of their final nine games, including defeating No. 3 USC and ending the Trojans' 27-game Pac-10 win streak. OSU also ended a lengthy Aloha Stadium win streak of Hawai'i and capped off the year with a thrilling victory over Missouri (39-38) in arguably the best Sun Bowl ever played. The final summary of the season showed OSU finishing third in the Pac-10, just one game behind co-winners USC and California. OSU ended the year ranked No. 21 in the final AP Poll. Football Bowl Subdivision. The Beavers put the finishing touches to the season and a No. 25 final ranking with a victory over Maryland in the Emerald Bowl.

"There's something refreshing about his (Mike Riley) attitude. Because there's something inspiring about a guy like Riley thriving in a brutal business that often rewards the disingenuous and those who are willing to take short cuts. I'd go so far to say that Riley is role-modeling what we should all be seeking for ourselves: He's well-liked, well-paid, respected, successful, secure and content. To me, that casts a warm glow."

— Ted Miller, ESPN.com

ended the year ranked No. 21 in the final AP Poll.

His 2012 team was picked to finish last in the Pac-12 North, yet went 6-3 in league and 9-4 overall. The team was ranked in the Associated Press Poll a school-record 12 consecutive weeks, including as high as No. 7. The Beavers opened the year with victories over No. 13 Wisconsin and No. 19 UCLA, and posted the third-best conference record behind a pair of BCS bowl teams.

The 2008 Beavers lost more starters than any other Pac-10 team, but Riley and his staff found replacements within the program to turn what was expected to be a rebuilding year into a 9-4 season and the program's second-best ever mark in the Pac-10 Conference at 7-2 (tied for second). All of this while playing a schedule that was considered one of the toughest in the nation that included three BCS bowl teams (USC, Utah, Penn State). The keynote victory of the season was a 27-21 win over then-No. 1 USC in a nationally televised Thursday game. The season culminated with a 3-0 victory over No. 18 Pittsburgh in the Sun Bowl, a game OSU played without two of the team's top three offensive weapons - Pac-10 Offensive MVP and All-America running back Jacquizz Rodgers and his brother receiver James Rodgers. The team ended the year No. 18 in the final Associated Press Poll and No. 19 in the USA Today.

His 2007 team won seven of the final eight games on the way to a 9-4 mark, just one game behind co-Pac-10 champions USC and Arizona State at 6-3 in the league. OSU won at No. 2 California when a Bear victory would have moved them to No. 1 and beat No. 18 Oregon in Eugene. The defensive unit finished first in the nation against the run and accumulated the most yards lost via tackles than any other team in the Riley returned to the Beaver sideline for the second time in 2003 and led the team to the Las Vegas Bowl title over New Mexico. The team set numerous individual and team records, and led the Pac-10 for both offense and defense. He followed up the '03 team's success by signing the program's best ever recruiting class, according to several scouting organizations.

In 2004 the team accepted the challenge of playing both '03 defending national champions, the eventual 2004 national champions and faced one of the most difficult schedules overall in the nation. The team fought through early setbacks before defeating Oregon in the annual Civil War in then record fashion. The victory over the archrivals propelled OSU to a convincing 38-21 victory over Notre Dame in the Insight Bowl. The Beavers closed 2004 winning six of their final seven games and pushing Orange Bowl/National champion USC to the wire.

In 2009, Riley and his staff had a monumental task of replacing nearly every starter on defense and a total of seven NFL draftees. The Beavers not only qualified for a bowl game, but also for the second straight year played the season finale for the opportunity to receive the Rose Bowl berth. A league-high seven Beavers earned first team All-Pac-10 honors and the team finished higher than the preseason predictions for the fourth consecutive year.

While the 2010 team did not qualify for a bowl game, there were still plenty of highlights. The Beavers played the most difficult schedule in the nation competing against four teams that finished the year in the top seven of the national polls, and winning two games over top-25 clubs. OSU featured Stephen Paea (DT) earning Pac-10 Defensive Player of the Year and for the second time was named the recipient of the league's Morris Trophy, awarded to the conference's top defensive lineman. Jacquizz Rodgers earned Pac-10 First Team for the third consecutive season and joined just two other former Pac-10 running backs (Napolean Kauffman and Charles White) as three-time honorees. Riley also led the "Beaver Nation" charge to school records for average home attendance (45,509) and for season ticket sales (26,952).

program since the Pac-8/10 Conference was formed in 1968.

He continued his education and his coaching in 1976 at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. He finished his master's degree in physical education in 1977 while working for the popular Pacific Northwest coach and future Canadian Football League legend Hugh Campbell.

Riley's first full-time appointment came at NAIA powerhouse Linfield College in McMinnville, Ore. From 1977-82 he served as the program's defensive coordinator and secondary coach, as well as assistant athletic director. Riley assisted head coach Ad Rutschman's Wildcats to a six-year record of 52-7-1, which included five conference titles and the 1982 undefeated NAIA title team.

An opportunity to coach in the professional ranks presented itself following the '82 season, and Riley was on his way to the Canadian Football League's Winnipeg Blue Bombers as the secondary coach. During his three-years as an assistant, Winnipeg produced a 32-15-1 mark and won the 1984 Grey Cup title.

Riley returned to the college level in 1986 as an assistant coach at the University of Northern Colorado, before being named the youngest coach in CFL history in 1987 with Winnipeg at 33-years of age. Riley guided the Bombers to two Grey Cup titles (1988, '90) and was named the CFL's Coach of the Year in those seasons. He was inducted into the club's Hall of Fame June 13, 2007.

In 1991 Riley took over the San Antonio Riders of the World Football League, spending two seasons before the league suspended its North American operations.

He returned to the college ranks in 1993 when then-USC head coach John Robinson offered him the position of offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach – he later became assistant head coach. The Mesa (Ariz.) Tribune named him the league's top assistant coach in 1993 after leading the Trojans' offense to record setting numbers. Then USC quarterback Rob Johnson earned numerous Pac-10 and NCAA records, and would later become a first-round draft pick.

Riley remained at USC through the 1997 season, helping the Trojans to victories in the Rose, Cotton, and Freedom Bowls. USC won one outright league title, shared another and finished second one time.

In addition, Riley has been the head coach for three postseason all-star games – the Hula Bowl, East-West Shrine Game and Blue-Gray All-Star Classic.

Mike and his wife Dee are the parents of one son, Matthew, and one daughter, Kate. They also have a grandson, Elijah Jo. Matthew is an OSU graduate and is currently an employee at the University of Texas. Kate is a 2011 OSU graduate and also resides in Corvallis. Mike has two brothers; Edward Riley is a physician and Associate Professor at the Stanford University School of Medicine and Pete Riley is a scientist for the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Mike Riley is under contract at OSU through 2020 – his contract rolls over one year for every time the team plays in a bowl game.

His success at all levels is well documented. Riley has earned the respect of players, coaches, media and fans. He has been called the savior of Oregon State football and the future continues to look bright for the Orange and Black.

Oregon State's Mike Riley still making mark in Corvallis

By Gabriel Baumgaertner
Sports Illustrated

May 24, 2013

Mike Riley and Oregon State went 6-0 to open the 2012 campaign, the program's best start since 1907.

If Mike Riley is considered a hometown hero in Corvallis, Ore., he certainly took an indirect route to earning that distinction. A younger Riley quarterbacked Corvallis High to consecutive state title games in 1969 and 1970, but when it came time to choose a college, he didn't stay local and play for the Beavers. Instead, he opted to head to Alabama. He later bounced around at numerous coaching destinations before eventually landing his current gig as Oregon State's headman before the 2003 campaign.

Now 59, Riley is content to stay put. That's true even in 2013, when he has to replace arguably his two best players from last season (wideout Markus Wheaton and cornerback Jordan Poyer), solve a quarterback controversy and replace the entire middle of his defense. Riley knows the type of kids he has are the type who will thrive in his program.

"I've got happy kids," Riley said. "They're happy kids that like to work hard. That's been the key to the program. These kids are interested in being a part of a team and being the best guy that they can be. I think that's why we can be successful here."

Yes, it's Corvallis for Riley. He's settled now, but it took him plenty of time to get back to this point. And more than a decade into his second stint at the school (he was also the head coach at Oregon State from 1997-98), he's learned the essence of this place. He knows how find the right kids and how to win. He wants to take the Beavers to the elusive Rose Bowl, a game they haven't played in since 1964.

To an outsider, it might feel as though Riley never left. Many probably forget that he coached the San Diego Chargers for three years from 1999-2001. He was reportedly offered the Alabama job in '01 (it went to Dennis Franchione) and was passed over for two jobs he probably should have gotten (Stanford in 2002, UCLA in 2003) before accepting the Oregon State position. Riley even turned down the coveted USC job in 2009 after derailing the Trojans' perfect seasons in 2006 and 2008.

But from 1975-1997, Riley's coaching history reads like standard Johnny Cash lyrics: He coached in Berkeley, Spokane, McMinnville, Oregon, Winnipeg (twice), Greeley, Colorado, San Antonio and eventually Los Angeles before landing the Oregon State job for the first time. When he returned to Corvallis after a few years in the pros, stability became his goal.

Now he's found it. Coming off a 9-4 campaign with a contract in place that will keep him until 2019, Riley is affable, even talkative -- a rare quality in an FBS head football coach.

"Oh, I just love it here," Riley said. "It's got to be the university feel, I think. The people. The fact that it's all about college. The only problem is that Corvallis can be a tough place to get to and that can be tough on recruiting sometimes."

Oregon State may be a comfortable job, but it certainly isn't an easy one. The archrival Ducks are a mainstay in the BCS, while Corvallis isn't conveniently accessible by plane. Attracting marquee national recruits to campus -- even with the promise of In-N-Out burgers -- can be an exceedingly difficult task.

But history shows Riley is unfazed. From 2006-08, his Beavers upset an undefeated top-five team each year. Since beginning his second stint, he's 5-2 in bowl games, and he has churned out 27 draft picks since he took the job. His staff's philosophy has worked: sign unheralded guys and then pick bigger recruiting battles within the conference. Oregon State maximizes its talent with Riley at the helm, and it still manages to win a few recruiting battles against schools like Washington, Stanford and Cal.

"We don't have a magic formula for finding diamonds in the rough," Riley said. "We don't go by any star system either. We take a look, find out about the kid and if we like him we recruit him."

Perhaps the staff doesn't use stars, but Riley may be downplaying his approach to targeting prospects. Take his class of 2009, for instance. That Oregon State haul eventually had seven players drafted; none were given more than three stars by any major recruiting service coming out of high school or junior college. Three of those players -- Andy Levitre, Keenan Lewis and Victor Butler -- were once two-star recruits who now have sizable NFL contracts.

Still, the best example of under-the-radar player turned superstar remains Jacquizz Rodgers, who arrived at Oregon State from suburban Houston as a three-star recruit in 2008. Even though he was relatively unknown when he first set foot on campus, "The Quiz Show" became the Pac-10 Offensive Player of the Year as a freshman and a three-time all-conference first-team selection. He rushed for more than 3,800 yards and 46 touchdowns over three years before being drafted by the Atlanta Falcons.

Other than Boise State and TCU, Oregon State has likely turned more overlooked high schoolers into future stars than any other school. In an age so heavily reliant on recruiting services, Riley trusts his methods and his staff to compile a team.

"Evaluation really is the hard thing. And in college football it's not just the evaluation, it's recruiting them too," Riley said. "But what we have here is a good mixture of veteran coaches and young guys that help us in recruiting. We really need the veterans to help us in the evaluation part."

Riley faces several challenges heading into this season. He has to preside over a quarterback competition between two upperclassmen, junior Sean Mannion and senior Cody Vaz, that he insists will not be resolved until fall camp. He needs to determine his new second cornerback, the position previously held by Poyer. ("One of the best players to ever walk through our program," Riley said.) And while Riley has two running backs (Storm Woods and Terron Ward) who should roll up plenty of yardage, he's got another ace in redshirt freshman back Chris Brown, who dominated the spring game. A speedster from Fresno, Calif., Brown was one recruit who spurned offers from Washington and Oregon to take the field in Corvallis.

Riley acknowledges the questions marks, but he does so happily. The Beavers got off to their best start since 1907 last year, momentum he hopes to carry into this season. It may have taken him a while to figure it out, but it's clear: Riley is exactly where he belongs.

Mark Banker and the assistants have developed one of the top defenses in the nation, and it's backed up by the statistics. Banker, in his 11th year as defensive coordinator, has had over 50 players earn postseason all-conference honors.

In 2012, Banker solely served as the defensive coordinator and led the Beavers to a dramatic improvement and an invitation to the Valero Alamo Bowl. The Beavers finished third for overall defense in the Pac-12 Conference, including second for scoring defense, and was sixth in the nation for third-down percentage defense. Two Beavers earned Pac-12 First Team honors, defensive end Scott Crichton and cornerback Jordan Poyer. Poyer became the first OSU consensus All-American in over 40 years. Cornerback Rashaad Reynolds and tackle Andrew Seumalo also garnered postseason honors by being selected Pac-12 Honorable Mention.

Banker's 2011 defense produced freshman All-American defensive ends Scott Crichton and Dylan Wynn, as well as Pac-12 all-conference cornerback Jordan Poyer. A total of 10 first time starters played on the defense, making it one of the youngest units in the nation.

Banker was named the Pac-10 Defensive Coordinator of the Week in 2010 for his team's effort in allowing just 255 yards in a 38-6 victory over No. 20 USC. Seven players on defense earned Pac-10 Conference postseason honors, including defensive tackle Stephen Paea earning his second Morris Trophy honor, presented annually to league's top defensive lineman. Paea also earned consensus All-America honors.

Banker had only three starters return to his defense in 2009, yet he molded the team to make yet another run at the conference title finishing second. Paea was the recipient of the Pac-10's Morris Trophy and linebacker Keaton Kristick joined Paea on the conference's first team. Three other linebackers earned honorable mention all-league.

In 2008, Banker's defense ranked second in the Pac-10, allowing 312.2 yards per game. There were many highlights to the season, including shutting down the vaunted USC offense in a 27-21 victory in then the No. 1 Trojans only loss of the year. The Beavers also shut out Pittsburgh in the Sun Bowl, marking the only postseason game where a team was held scoreless. The individual highlights were many including eight defenders earning All-Pac-10 honors. Defensive end Victor Butler, a Pac-10 First Team player, had a record breaking season for tackles-for-loss and was named the Sun Bowl MVP after making four sacks. Butler (Dallas), defensive end Slade Norris (Oakland), Keenan Lewis (Pittsburgh), Al Afalava (Chicago) and Brandon Hughes (San Diego) were all selected in the NFL Draft.

In 2007, the defense was first against the rush (70.6 yards), fourth for quarterback sacks (3.4 per game), sixth for tackles-for-loss (8.2) and eighth for total defense (306.2). Eleven players earned postseason honors and linebacker Joey LaRocque was drafted by the Chicago Bears. Following the season he and head coach Mike Riley, offensive coordinator Danny Langsdorf and offensive line coach Mike Cavanaugh served on the coaching staff at the Hula Bowl.

His 2006 team led the Pac-10 and finished third for quarterback sacks, was the conference leader for red-zone defense and led the nation for tackles-for-loss yardage (528). The team also produced four all-conference players, including first team honoree Sabby Piscitelli, one of the best safeties to ever play at OSU. Piscitelli went on to be drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

In 2005 the team ranked fourth in the Pac-10 for total defense, including leading the conference and finishing 17th for rush defense (108.0). Following the season linebacker Keith Ellison was drafted by the Buffalo Bills.

His 2004 unit led the Pac-10 Conference for pass efficiency defense (100.9/8th in NCAA) and ranked second for passing yards allowed (196.0), total defense (313.3), third down conversion defense (29.4%) and red zone defense (71.7%). This coming after the 2003 team posted similar numbers and rankings.

Banker first stepped onto the OSU campus in 1997 with Riley, and has spent 16 of the last 17 seasons with him. He spent two years at OSU as the secondary coach and recruiting coordinator. The '97 Beavers ranked among the Pac-10's best for interceptions with 16 and Banker helped the program finish sixth in the league for pass defense. Cornerback Basheer Elahee ranked tied for third in the league in '97 for pass breakups (12) and safety Andrae Holland led the league in '98 in the breakup category with 22. Banker also had the opportunity to recruit and coach a young player by the name of Dennis Weathersby, who went on to become an All-American cornerback.

Banker began his coaching career in 1979 as a graduate assistant for his alma mater, Springfield College in Massachusetts. He spent two years at Springfield, one as an offensive line coach and one as running backs coach, before embarking on a full-time career.

His first full-time opportunity came at Cal State-Northridge in 1981. He remained with the Matador program until 1994, serving 11 years as defensive coordinator. When he first arrived at CSUN the program had just 11 scholarships; when he left the program sponsored 54.

In 1995 he moved to the Football Bowl Subdivision (Div. 1) ranks at the University of Hawai'i as the outside linebackers and special teams coach. In 1996 he joined the University of Southern California staff, joining offensive coordinator Mike Riley.

Following his first tenure at Oregon State, Banker went with most of the coaching staff to San Diego to work for the Chargers. He was promoted to defensive coordinator in 2001 after serving two seasons as the cornerbacks coach. As the coordinator the Chargers ranked 11th in the league for total defense and first for rush defense average.

Banker earned three letters as a running back at Springfield, where he graduated with a bachelor's degree in physical education. He is a high school graduate of Plymouth-Carver in Massachusetts, where he earned a total of 11 letters in football, hockey and baseball.

Mark and his wife Debbie have three children; Chris, Jayme and Kelsey.

Bruce Read is in his third tenure as the special teams coordinator at Oregon State, with 2013 marking his fifth consecutive year in Beaver gear. His previous tenures included the 1997-98 and 2004-06 seasons. In addition to his college resume, Read has coached special teams in the NFL for three clubs, 2007-08 with the Dallas Cowboys, 2002-03 with the New York Giants and 1999-2001 with the San Diego Chargers.

Read is considered the best special teams coach in OSU history with numerous Beavers achieving outstanding accomplishments and school records. In 2012, Read coached Jordan Jenkins to Pac-12 First Team honors as a coverage player and kicker Trevor Romaine to conference honorable mention acclaim. Romaine was one of the most accurate field goal kickers in the nation and led the Pac-12 for percentage at nearly 89 percent and set a school record by making 51 extra points.

In 2011, senior James Rodgers became the school's career leader for all-purpose yards with 6,377, including 2,385 via punt and kickoff returns. Punter Johnny Hekker earned Pac-12 Honorable Mention honors. As a team the Beavers in '11 finished second in the Pac-12, seventh in the NCAA and had the third-best punt return average in program history at 15.1 yards.

In 2010, OSU set a school record for kickoff return average at 26.4 yards (4th in NCAA) and posted the third-best punt return mark at 14.8 yards (6th in NCAA). Sophomore Jordan Poyer ended the year with second-best punt return average in the Pac-10 Conference at 27.8 yards per attempt.

In 2009, Suaesi Tuimaunei earned Pac-10 First Team honors for his play on coverage teams and kicker Justin Kahut was a second team honoree. Kahut led the conference for scoring with 111 points, and James Rodgers finished in the league's top five for punt and kickoff returns.

In 2006, Sammie Stroughter earned third team All-American honors in part for his punt return abilities and placekicker Alexis Serna garnered Pac-10 Second Team. Stroughter set the school record with three punt returns for touchdowns and Serna, at the time, had a school record 106 consecutive made extra point attempts - he eventually made 144 straight. Stroughter's play impressed NFL scouts and he has gone on to a successful NFL career with Tampa Bay.

In 2005 Read coached Pac-10 First Team selections punter Sam Paulescu and Serna. Serna was the '05 recipient of the Lou Groza Award, recognizing the nation's premier kicker, and an Associated Press Second Team All-American. Paulescu has played for five NFL teams and is currently with Washington.

Read spent the 2002 and 2003 seasons as the special teams coach for the Giants. During the '03 season the Giants improved in six of eight statistical special teams categories.

Read accompanied Riley to San Diego in 1999 to coach the Chargers' special teams. San Diego led the NFL in 2001 with a kickoff return average of 26.0 yards - 4.4 yards more than the NFL average for that season. Ronny Jenkins led the league with a 26.6 yards per kickoff return average and scored two touchdowns. For his career with the Chargers, the team consistently rated above the average mark in most statistical categories, and in his first year with the club the team improved 18 spots in the NFL's special teams category to sixth. In 2001, the Chargers were third for special teams and punter Darren Bennett played in the Pro Bowl.

While at Oregon State during his first tenure Beaver special teams units blocked 15 kicks. In 1998 OSU was second in the Pac-10 with a .654 (17-26) field goal percentage and was third for kickoff return average at 23.1 yards. In 1997, kicker Jose Cortez ranked tied for third for field goal conversions with 11.

Read began his coaching career in 1985 working alongside his father, head coach Don Read at the University of Montana. He was named a full-time assistant in 1987, where he would serve the next 10 years as a special teams coach. While at Montana the program broke over 30 records for special teams, and blocked 27 punts and 22 kicks. Montana claimed three Big Sky Conference titles (1993, '95, '96) and won the 1995 NCAA Division I-AA title.

Read is a 1986 graduate of Portland State with a bachelor's degree in social science.

He and his wife Christina, have two sons, Justin and Joshua.

Danny Langsdorf is in his ninth season at Oregon State University in his current capacity as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. This is his 11th year overall in the program, serving two years as a graduate assistant coach for Mike Riley during the 1997 and '98 seasons.

The 41-year-old Langsdorf arrived at OSU for his second tenure after spending three years with the New Orleans Saints and during the 2002 season coached with Riley. Langsdorf spent the last two years as assistant wide receivers/special teams coach for the Saints and in 2002 he was the offensive assistant/quality control coach.

Langsdorf's offenses have produced gaudy numbers with eight of the top 12 OSU season performances in total offense coming under his guidance. According to Rivals.com, OSU had the most diversified offense in the nation in the decade of the 2000s; Langsdorf played a big part in that impressive statistic.

The 2012 team equaled the biggest turnaround in the nation from the previous year, finishing 9-4. In the process OSU posted its second-most yards in school history with 5,610. Wide receiver Markus Wheaton set the school record for career receptions with 227 and tied the single season record with 91. Wheaton earned Pac-12 First Team and All-America honors, while his receiving teammate Brandin Cooks earned honorable mention. Offensive linemen Isaac Seumalo and Grant Enger also found spots.

The 2011 season featured freshman-redshirt quarterback Sean Mannion having one of the best years in school history as he earned All-America honors after passing for 3,328 yards, the third most in OSU history, the fourth-most for the season in the Pac-12 Conference and the most in the NCAA by a freshman for the season. The Beavers' passing offense ranked 19th in the country overall and for the second straight season with a first-year starting quarterback.

In 2010 Langsdorf guided quarterback Ryan Katz through a season that featured OSU playing the most difficult schedule in the nation. Katz finished eighth in the conference for total offense (201.2 yds). Langsdorf also led one of the nation's premier running backs Jacquizz Rodgers to his third 1,000-yard season and to Pac-10 Conference First Team honors.

The 2009 Beavers played the season finale with the Rose Bowl invitation on the line and ended playing in their fourth consecutive bowl game. Three offensive players landed on the Pac-10 First Team squad, including the first OSU quarterback ever with the accomplishment - Sean Canfield. The brother duo of James and Jacquizz Rodgers also earned Pac-10 First Team honors. OSU led the league for passing offense (270.8 yards p/g), pass efficiency (141.5) and first downs (278), and was in the top three for scoring offense (31.5) and total offense (410.6 pg). The team also led the nation for red zone efficiency at 96 percent.

In 2008 the team finished second in the Pac-10 for pass offense (249 yds p/g), third for total offense (407.1 p/g) and in the top half overall for pass efficiency and scoring. Individually, the unit featured Pac-10 Offensive MVP Jacquizz Rodgers, the first freshman to ever earn the honor, as well as All-American tackle Andy Levitre. A total of six Beavers on offense earned Pac-10 honors, including three on the first team. The Beavers also won yet another bowl game, capturing the Sun Bowl over Pittsburgh.

The 2007 offense overcame a rash of injuries to finish third in the conference for the second consecutive year with a 6-3 mark. The Beavers once again won their bowl game, defeating Maryland in the Emerald Bowl. Tailback Yvenson Bernard finished his illustrious career sixth in the Pac-10 and second all-time at OSU for career rushing yards with 3,862. Bernard and linemen Roy Schuening and Andy Levitre earned Pac-10 All-Conference accolades. Following the season, Langsdorf coached in the Hula Bowl with

In 2006 the Beaver offense enjoyed a balanced attack led by senior quarterback Matt Moore and an experienced returning cast. Bernard and guard Jeremy Perry earned Pac-10 First Team honors, and another seven Beavers earned second team and honorable mention acclaim. Overall the offense finished in the top half of the conference for scoring, passing, pass efficiency, first downs, red zone offense and time of possession. The team also scored 30-plus points in eight games, including six of the final seven.

In his first year as offensive coordinator in 2005, Oregon State broke the school record for total offense for an 11-game season with 4,609 yards, which included an 11-game record for passing with 3,261 yards. Five offensive players in '05 earned postseason honors, including wide receiver Mike Hass who was the Biletnikoff Award recipient and a first team All-American.

Prior to his stint with the Saints, he was an assistant coach with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League. Langsdorf was the Eskimos' offensive coordinator/quarterbacks coach from 2000-2001 after serving as the wide receivers coach in 1999. His guidance helped Edmonton lead the CFL for total yards in 2001 with 6,606.

Langsdorf began his professional career as a player/coach with the Deggendorf Blackhawks of Germany. His college coaching career started in 1996 at California Lutheran University in Thousand Oaks.

During Langsdorf's first two years at Oregon State he worked with the offense, particularly focusing on the tight ends. He was part of the coaching team that transformed the offense from the wishbone to a multiple set.

The native of McMinnville, Ore., was a standout college football student-athlete playing quarterback. He was a member of the Boise State University football team from 1991-93, lettering one season and earning Big Sky Conference All-Academic honors as a sophomore. He transferred to Linfield College in McMinnville after the '93 season and became the Wildcats' starting quarterback for 1994 and '95. He played for his father (Ed) at Linfield and was selected to the All-Northwest Conference Team as a junior after passing for 2,055 yards and 24 touchdowns. He set a then-school record with 493 passing yards against Southern Oregon on Nov. 12, 1994. He was injured much of his senior season, but concluded his two-year career with 2,724 yards, completing 195 of 356 pass attempts.

Ed Langsdorf is a scout with the San Diego Chargers after spending 20 years as a coach at Linfield.

Danny is married to the former Michele Bertrand, a softball standout at Linfield who still appears in the school record books for her pitching prowess. The couple has two sons, Dawsen and Carter. Danny graduated from Linfield in 1995 with a bachelor's degree in exercise science.

He donated a kidney to Laurie Cavanaugh, offensive line coach Mike Cavanaugh's wife, in May of 2007.

Chris Brasfield is in his third season as Oregon State's running backs coach and in January of 2012 was selected as one of the top 50 recruiters in the country by 247Sports.

Brasfield led a talented and young running back corps in 2012 that combined for 1,680 yards and 24 touchdowns, led by redshirt-freshman Storm Woods' 941 yards and 13 touchdowns rushing. Woods' 13 touchdowns on the ground marked the eighth-most in a single season for a Beaver.

In 2011 the promising season by true freshman running back Malcolm Agnew was derailed by a hamstring injury. Agnew set the OSU freshman record with 223 yards rushing in the season opener in what was the first true freshman in modern history to start at OSU ever at the position.

Brasfield joined the Oregon State staff in March of 2011, after serving the 2010 season as a defensive graduate assistant coach at the University of Oregon. While at Oregon, he worked with the defensive backs, oversaw the defensive interns and student-assistants, evaluated recruiting video and was involved in on-campus recruiting.

Brasfield arrived at Oregon after three-plus seasons at Samford University in Birmingham where he was the running backs coach. While with the Bulldogs he coached (the first two seasons) the school's career rushing leader Chris Evans, who accounted for 4,575 yards and 33 touchdowns. While at Samford he also participated one summer in the NFL Minority Coaching Internship program with the Tennessee Titans.

Brasfield's NFL experience isn't limited to his stint with the Titans, he also participated in the internship program with the Oakland Raiders in 2000 and was an area scout for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2001-02).

The native of San Antonio, Texas began his coaching career in 1996 as a graduate assistant with wide receivers and special teams responsibilities at Midwestern State in Wichita Falls, Texas. He later served as a wide receivers coach at Southwest Texas State (now Texas State) for the 1999 season and as an offensive graduate assistant coach at TCU during the 2001 preseason.

Brasfield has extensive high school football coaching experience as well, that includes at Fort Worth's Country Day and All Saints Episcopal, and at Chicago Hope Academy in Illinois.

Brasfield played collegiately at TCU in 1994 and '95 as a wide receiver and return specialist after transferring to the Horned Frogs from UTEP where he was a team member from 1991-93. He is a 1996 graduate of TCU with a bachelor's degree in economics and in 2001 with his master's in liberal arts. He helped TCU capture the 1994 Southwest Conference title and played in that season's Independence Bowl. Brasfield received the 1996 Ralph Lowe Sportsmanship Award at TCU.

He is married to the former Sherresa Ward, a 1997 OSU graduate, and the couple has three children, Tyson, Taylor and Truman.

One of Oregon State's top defensive players in the program's history was promoted to full-time linebackers coach in January of 2013 after serving the 2012 season as a graduate assistant.

Bray helped Oregon State have the biggest turnaround from the 2011 season in the NCAA last year as the team improved by six victories and played in the Valero Alamo Bowl. His 2013 team features a solid nucleus of returning players, including returning team leader for tackles (83) two-year starter Michael Doctor.

Bray spent the 2009-11 seasons as the linebackers coach at Arizona State, the last two as full-time after serving 2009 as a graduate assistant. While with the Sun Devils, Bray coached 2010 Pac-10 second team linebacker Vontaze Burfict and 2011 Pac-12 honorable mention linebacker Colin Parker.

Bray started 34 of 49 career games at OSU, including 33 straight, and in 2004 was the Insight Bowl Defensive MVP after making 10 tackles in the victory over Notre Dame. He was a Pac-10 first team selection as a senior and second team as a junior. For his career he made 337 tackles, currently sixth in the OSU record book.

Following his OSU career, Bray signed free agent contracts with the Miami Dolphins and Houston Texans. He would later play for the Hamburg Sea Devils of the NFL Europe in 2007 and began his coaching career with the California Redwoods of the United Football League in 2009.

He was a two-time Great Northern League Defensive Player of the Year at Pullman High School in Washington and earned all-state honors twice. In addition to football, where he played tight end and linebacker, he was an league athlete in baseball and basketball.

Bray is the son of Craig Bray, a former OSU assistant football coach.

Brent Brennan is in his third year as assistant football coach for wide receivers after joining the OSU staff following six years at San Jose State in a similar capacity.

Brennan was a finalist for the FootballScoop Wide Receiver Coach of the Year after helping the Beavers rank among the national leaders for total offense in 2012, including second in the Pac-12 Conference for pass offense at over 307 yards per game. OSU made a dramatic turnaround in '12 finishing with a 9-4 record and a trip to the Valero Alamo Bowl to play Texas.

Brennan's 2012 receiving corps was considered one of the best in the nation led by senior Markus Wheaton and sophomore Brandin Cooks. Wheaton earned All-America honors, Pac-12 First Team, played in the Senior Bowl, became the school's all-time leader for receptions with 227, left OSU third for career receiving yards with 2,994 and was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers. Cooks was a semifinalist for the Biletnikoff Award, Pac-12 Honorable Mention and compiled the seventh most receiving yards in a single season in OSU history with 1,151.

In Brennan's first year in Corvallis he coached James Rodgers, OSU's all-time leader for all-purpose yards with 6,373 and now second for career receptions with 222. Wheaton earned Pac-12 Honorable Mention accolades.

During his tenure at San Jose State, Brennan held the positions of co-offensive coordinator, wide receivers coach, tight ends coach, special teams coordinator and recruiting coordinator. He coached three NFL players while with the Spartans - James Jones (Green Bay), John Broussard (Jacksonville) and Kevin Jurovich (San Francisco). Both Jones and Broussard were NFL Draft picks.

Prior to his arrival at San Jose State, Brennan spent four seasons (2001-04) as the wide receivers/slot back coach at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, and for his final season was also the team's recruiting coordinator. While at Cal Poly he coached and recruited the 2004 Division I-AA (now FCS) Player of the Year Jordan Beck and 2004 All-American wide receiver Darrell Jones. Brennan also coached at Cal Poly NFL players Kassim Osgood, Adam Herzing and Ramses Barden. Cal Poly won the 2004 Great West Conference title.

Brennan began his coaching career in 1996 at Woodside High School in California. His first collegiate experience was as a graduate assistant coach for wide receivers at the University of Hawai'i in 1998. In 1999 he was the graduate assistant coach for tight ends at the University of Washington and in 2000 was the graduate assistant coach on offense for the University of Arizona.

He is a 1996 graduate of UCLA with a bachelor's degree in history. The former UCLA wide receiver played four years for the Bruins (letting twice) and was on the 1993 Pac-10 Champion and 1994 Rose Bowl team.

Brennan and his wife, Courtney, have two daughters, Blake and Casey, and one son, Scott. His father, Steve Brennan, played football at San Jose State. His brother, Brad Brennan, was a four-year letterman receiver at Arizona and is a volunteer assistant at OSU. His cousin, Colt Brennan, was a record setting quarterback at Hawai'i.

Mike Cavanaugh is in his ninth season as Oregon State's offensive line coach.

Cavanaugh's line has enabled the Beaver offense to be one of the best in the nation during his tenure. He has had three offensive linemen drafted during his OSU career and 2007 draftee Adam Koets earned a Super Bowl ring with the New York Giants while Kyle DeVan started at guard for the Indianapolis Colts in the 2010 Super Bowl. He has also coached OSU All-Americans Andy Levitre (OT), Jeremy Perry (OG) and Isaac Seumalo (C).

Coach Cava helped Oregon State make the biggest turnaround from 2011 to 2012 in the NCAA as the Beavers improved by six wins and played in the Valero Alamo Bowl. A nearly revamped offensive line was among the best units for a season in Beaver history, with center Isaac Seumalo earning Freshman All-America honors. Seumalo along with guard Grant Enger were selected Pac-12 Honorable Mention by the league's head coaches.

The 2011 Beavers were riddled with injuries along the line, but center Grant Johnson earned Pac-12 Honorable Mention honors. His 2010 line was a roster of youthful players, with the exception of veteran center Alex Linnenkohl. Linnenkohl earned Pac-10 Conference Second Team honors while leading the Beaver offense that featured all-league running back Jacquizz Rodgers. Linnenkohl started 38 consecutive games. Tackle Mike Remmers also garnered postseason honors, earning Pac-10 Honorable Mention.

In 2009 several injuries forced the offensive line to adapt while playing several young linemen. Gregg Peat, the veteran of the group, earned Pac-10 First Team honors, while center Alex Linnenkohl was an honorable mention selection and tackle Michael Philipp earned true freshman All-America honors. With two walkons in the starting lineup protecting and blocking, quarterback Sean Canfield, running back Jacquizz Rodgers and receiver James Rodgers all earned first team all-league acclaim.

In 2008 his line helped running back Jacquizz Rodgers become the first freshman ever to earn Pac-10 Conference Offensive MVP honors. Andy Levitre, a second round NFL Draft selection of Buffalo, and guard Adam Speer earned all-league honors to go along with Rodgers. His line was one of the best in the nation at protecting the quarterback, maintaining in the Sun Bowl, earning Oregon State a 39-38 victory over Missouri.

In 2005 three of "Cavs" offensive linemen earned postseason honors, including Perry as the Pac-10 Co-Freshman of the Year and College Football News Freshman All-America. Running behind the likes of Perry, Yvenson Bernard was the nation's ninth-best running back in terms of yards per game (120.1).

Cavanaugh, a 1986 graduate of Southern Connecticut University, spent six seasons at the University of Hawai'i as the offensive line coach. He coached five NFL draft selections during his Warrior tenure.

He helped Hawai'i finish in the top 17 for total offense in each of his last four seasons, including second in 2002 at 495.6 yards per game. Hawai'i was sixth in 2003 at 488.1, seventh in 2001 at 462.7 and 17th in 2004 at 434.0. The Warriors are known for their passing attack, yet during the Cavanaugh tenure the team allowed just one sack on every 26 attempts.

During his career at the Manoa campus, the Warriors played in four bowl games, including a 23-17 victory over Oregon State in the 1999 Oahu Bowl.

Cavanaugh began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at the University of Albany in New York. In 1987 he was the offensive line coach at Wesleyan in Middletown, Conn., and from 1988-91 he was at Alma College in Michigan. While at Alma he served as the offensive coordinator/offensive line coach for the first three seasons and then as the defensive coordinator/linebackers coach for the final year.

Cavanaugh then was the offensive line coach and strength coach at Murray State in Kentucky for the 1992 season, and offensive coordinator and offensive line coach at Sacred Heart University in Connecticut for 1993 and '94. He was the offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator at Ferris State University in Michigan for the 1995 and '96 seasons and helped the program win a pair of Midwest Intercollegiate Conference titles. The '95 team advanced to the NCAA Division II semifinals.

He moved on to the National Football League in 1997 as the assistant offensive line/quality control coach for the San Diego Chargers, a position he held for two years, before joining the Hawai'i staff.

Cavanaugh played college football at New Haven from 1981-82 before transferring to Southern Connecticut State where he earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1986. The Wallingford, Conn., native is married to the former Laurie Gilbride and the couple has two sons, Shane and Blair. Laurie's brother is Kevin Gilbride, the offensive coordinator, of the 2008 and 2012 Super Bowl champion New York Giants. Blair is a member of the football team.

allowing an average of one sack per every 21 pass attempts.

In 2007 his group assisted Beaver running back Yvenson Bernard finish his career sixth in the Pac-10 Conference for career yards with 3,862, second all-time at OSU. Guard Roy Schuening earned first team all-league honors while Levitre earned second team and DeVan honorable mention. Schuening was drafted in the fifth round by the St. Louis Rams while DeVan took the free agent route.

The 2006 team featured sophomore guard Jeremy Perry earning Pac-10 First Team honors, Koets and DeVan garnered second team acclaim, and Schuening and Levitre earned honorable mention. Koets was a sixth round pick of the Giants. Oregon State was the only team in the Pac-10 to have all five of its starters earn postseason honors.

Cavanaugh's '06 group was so highly regarded by the Beaver coaching staff and players that head coach Mike Riley elected to run a "blast" play for a two-point conversion with 23 seconds re-

Rod Perry is in his second year on the Oregon State staff and serves as the team's secondary coach. He joined the staff after 24 seasons in the National Football League.

Perry's contribution to the Beaver football program was immediate with the play of what became one of the best secondary units in the country. Cornerback Jordan Poyer earned consensus All-America honors and his bookend defensive back Rashaad Reynolds was on the Pac-12 Conference Honorable Mention team. Starting safeties Ryan Murphy and Tyrequek Zimmerman return and will undoubtedly rank among the best in the league. Beaver defenders intercepted 20 passes in 2012, tied for seventh in the nation.

Perry's credentials are impressive, including playing (Rams) or coaching (Colts) in three Super Bowls. From 2007-11 he was the special assistant to the defense for Indianapolis, earning a Super Bowl championship ring in 2007 as the Colts beat the Chicago Bears. He also was on the AFC championship Colts team of 2010.

His professional coaching career began in 1989 with the Seattle Seahawks (1989-91/secondary) and also has included positions with the Los Angeles Rams (1992-94/secondary), Houston Oilers (1995-96/defensive backs), San Diego Chargers (1997-2001/cornerbacks) and Carolina Panthers (2002-06/secondary). He spent three years on the Chargers' staff under head coach Mike Riley.

In the NFL, Perry coached players that earned eight Pro Bowl honors (including two alternates); Colts safety Bob Sanders was the 2007 Associated Press NFL Defensive Player of the Year; and the 2008 Colts allowed just six touchdown passes -- the lowest 16-game total in NFL history.

Perry embarked on his coaching career in 1985 at Columbia University, before moving on to Fresno City College in 1986 and Fresno State in 1987-88.

He is a 1983 graduate of Fresno State University, but played collegiately at the University of Colorado, earning All-Big Eight Conference honors as a senior and Honorable Mention All-America in 1974. Prior to Colorado, Perry attended Fresno City College and was a Junior College All-American. The native of Fresno attended Hoover High School where his jersey number is permanently retired.

Following his college career Perry was a 1975 NFL Draft fourth round selection of the Los Angeles Rams, where he earned 1978 and '80 Pro Bowl honors as a cornerback. Perry, who concluded his NFL career playing the 1983 and '84 seasons with the Cleveland Browns, is a member of the Rams' 40th Anniversary Team and started in the 1980 Super Bowl. He also played his first two seasons with the Rams with OSU and State of Oregon Sports Hall of Fame member, and current OSU broadcaster Steve Preece.

Perry and his wife Patrice have three children, Rodney, Ryan and Miranda. Rodney was a 2001 MLB Draft pick of the Philadelphia Phillies (OF) as well as a member of the Penn State football and baseball teams, and Ryan was a two-year football letterman at the University of Hawai'i. Both work with the Beaver football team in various capacities.

Joe Seumalo (pronounced Say-u-malo) is in his eighth year at Oregon State and is credited with developing some of the school's best ever linemen. Rivals.com rated Coach Seumalo as one of the top recruiters in the Pac-12 Conference in February of 2013.

The Beavers equaled the biggest turnaround in the nation in 2012 from the previous season and it was in large part to the play of the defensive line. Defensive end Scott Crichton earned Pac-12 First Team honors. Tackle Andrew Seumalo, the son of Joe, landed on the Pac-12's Honorable Mention team. The Beaver defense held four opponents to under 10 points, the most since the 2000 season, finished second in the league for scoring defense (20.6 points) and nearly set the school record for fewest overall points allowed for a 13-game year.

In 2011, freshmen defensive ends Dylan Wynn and Crichton earned All-America honors. Crichton forced a school record six fumbles while Wynn recovered a school record five fumbles.

Defensive tackle Stephen Paea earned the Morris Trophy in 2010 for the second consecutive year. The award is presented to the Pac-12 Conference's top defensive lineman as voted on by the league's offensive linemen. Paea also was a consensus All-America selection and was invited to play in the Senior Bowl. In addition, end Gabe Miller was selected to the Conference's Honorable Mention team. Both Paea and Miller were members of the 2011 NFL Draft.

Paea burst onto the college football map in 2009 as a junior, earning Pac-10 First Team honors as well as being the recipient of the league's Morris Trophy. Led by Paea, the Beavers rushing defense ranked among the top 25 in the country. His defensive line helped OSU play in its fourth consecutive bowl game.

In 2008, his Beaver defense was the only unit in the NCAA to hold an opponent (Pittsburgh) scoreless in a bowl game (Sun). The defense ranked second overall in the Pac-10 for fewest yards allowed per contest (312.0) and quarterback sacks (39), and fifth for yards lost (456) via tackles-for-loss. His 2008 team also featured two of the best defensive ends in the history of the program, Victor Butler and Slade Norris. Butler earned the Sun Bowl's MVP honor after making five tackles-for-loss, including four quarterback sacks. Butler's 21.5 tackles-for-loss overall in '08 set a school record and he matched the Beaver mark for sacks (12) and forced fumbles (4) for a season. Three of his defenders earned Pac-10 honors, with Butler (Dallas age (528). Linemen Ben Siegert and Jeff Van Orsow both earned Pac-10 postseason recognition after the two made among the biggest plays in OSU history. Siegert blocked a school record two kicks in the win over Oregon, including the Ducks' game-winning field goal attempt. Van Orsow deflected John-David Booty's two-point conversion attempt to preserve a 33-31 win over USC, ending the Trojans' 27-game conference win streak.

Seumalo arrived at Oregon State after one year as the defensive line coach at San Jose State University. Prior to his stint in the Bay Area, he spent four years as the defensive line coach at Cal Poly University in San Luis, Obispo.

At Cal Poly, he was part of a coaching staff that molded one of the top Division I-AA defenses. In 2004, the nationally-ranked Mustangs were third in the country for rushing defense and ninth in scoring defense yielding just 16.6 points per game. One of his linemen, All-American Chris Gocong, led all I-AA players in quarterback sacks with 17.5 and was second in tackles-for-loss at 21.5. Gocong went on to finish second in the 2004 Buck Buchanan Award voting for the top defensive player in the Football Championship Subdivision classification.

The 2003 Cal Poly defense was 24th nationally in rushing defense yielding 121.1 yards per game and was among the best pass rushing teams with 40 quarterback sacks. Overall, the Mustangs averaged 39 sacks a season in his four years.

A defensive lineman at the University of Hawai'i from 1985 through 1988, Seumalo was a Western Athletic Conference Second Team choice in his senior season. Seumalo went on to play in the Canadian Football League for the Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa Roughriders in 1989, the Edmonton Eskimos in 1994 and for the Rhein Fire of NFL Europe in 1995.

The 1995 graduate of Hawai'i began his coaching career in 1994 at Kaiser High School in Honolulu. He also served as a guest coach for the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League in 1996 and the Hawai'i Hammerheads of the Indoor Football League in 1999.

Seumalo moved to the college ranks in 1999 as a graduate assistant at Hawai'i, where he was part of a staff that included current OSU offensive line coach Mike Cavanaugh. In his two seasons, he coached the defensive ends and assisted with the special teams.

He and his wife, Karen, have four sons, Andrew, Isaac, Noah and Levi, and one daughter, Jessi. Isaac is a sophomore center on the team and earned Freshman All-America honors in 2012.

and Norris (Oakland) being selected in the fourth round of the NFL Draft.

In 2007, the Beavers led the nation against the run (70.6), were fourth for quarterback sacks (3.4 per game), sixth for tackles-for-loss (8.2 pg) and eighth for total defense overall (306.2 yds p/g). The team accounted for more yards (537) lost via tackles-for-loss than any other team. Of the 13 teams the Beavers faced in 2007, 12 gained under their season average for rushing yards. All four of his starters on the Beaver defensive line earned Pac-10 postseason honors.

Seumalo's first year with the program was very successful as he was part of a defensive unit that ranked first in the Pac-10 for quarterback sacks and led the nation for tackles-for-loss yard-

Former Oregon State offensive center Kyle DeVan became a graduate assistant coach for the offense in the winter of 2013.

DeVan came to OSU after five seasons in the NFL, the last the 2012 campaign with the Tennessee Titans. He originally signed as a free agent in 2008 with the Washington Redskins before joining the New York Jets as a practice squad player. In the spring of 2009 he played for the Boise Burn of the AF2 before being signed by the Indianapolis Colts. He appeared in 31 games for the Colts, starting 21 times including in the 2009 Super Bowl against New Orleans. He was acquired by the Philadelphia Eagles off waivers in 2011 and started four of five games.

In addition to his professional football career, he has worked as a substitute teacher at his alma mater of Vacaville High School in California.

As a Beaver, he earned four letters (2004-07), starting 38 games (consecutively) and led the team to three bowl victories. OSU's record during his tenure as an active player was 31-19. He earned Pac-10 Conference Honorable Mention as a sophomore and senior, and was a second team selection as a junior. He also was a member of the league's academic honorable mention roster three times. He played in the 2008 East-West Shrine Game and twice he was a member of the preseason Rimington Trophy Watch List.

DeVan was twice named all-league in football at Vacaville on both sides of the ball. In addition, he excelled in wrestling where he was the California heavy-weight champion as a senior.

He is a 2008 OSU graduate in human development and family studies. Tavita and his wife Lindsay have two children; Brycen and Tausani.

2013-present: Chief of Staff

Jay Locey is in his eighth year at Oregon State and in January of 2013 took on a new role for the program, serving as the chief of staff.

In his new position, Locey coordinates critical off the field administrative projects and assignments for one of the most successful Pac-12 football programs this century. His responsibilities include career/job placement for football student-athletes working closely with the OSU Director of Leadership Development that includes professional workshops (resumes, networking, career fairs), prescreening of opponents, Varsity OSU football alumni engagement, fundraising, leadership development, coordination of high school clinics and camps, team building activities, community relations and assisting incoming student-athletes in conjunction with the BEST (Bridge Encouraging Successful Transition) Program.

In May of 2013 he was presented the Virtue First Foundation's (Character Development Programs) Coach of the Year award for his commitment to rebuild the character of America's youth.

Prior to accepting his new role, Locey served as the Assistant Head Coach, working with the tight ends for four years. He has also coached the wide receivers for three seasons.

He came to OSU after a tremendously successful career at Linfield

College in nearby McMinnville. Locey brought to the Beavers many of the aspects that made him one of the most successful coaches in small college football.

The 2012 season proved to be historically one of the best turnarounds in college football as the Beavers posted a 9-4 record (3-9 previous season) and played in the Valero Alamo Bowl. The tight ends/H backs played a crucial role in helping the team achieve many goals, led by Connor Hamlett's 32 receptions (4th for the season at OSU). Colby Prince also had a banner year and was selected to the District's Academic All-America team.

In 2011, Locey coached tight end Joe Halahuni to one of the best years in OSU history for the position. Halahuni finished his career with 13 touchdowns receiving, the ninth-most in school history. The senior caught 31 passes and for his career had 97 receptions.

His 2010 wide receiver corps had to overcome the loss of All-America receiver James Rodgers due to injury early in the season. With the loss of the veteran receiver, Locey developed a young group that has excelled. Then sophomore Markus Wheaton led the team in receptions that season with 54.

In 2009, Rodgers earned Pac-10 first team honors after setting a then school record with 91 receptions. He led the Pac-10 and ranked 13th in the nation for receptions per game (7.0). The junior also ranked second in the league for receiving yards per game (79.5), and was the league-leader and seventh in the nation for all-purpose yards (179.1).

Locey's receivers in 2008 had a banner year that culminated with a Pac-10 First Team selection in Sammie Stroughter, who was later invited to the East-West Shrine Game and was drafted in the seventh round by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. His other two starters, James Rodgers and Shane Morales, also earned Pac-10 honors. That trio of receivers all ranked in the top-10 of the Conference in receptions per game, with Stroughter leading the league with 80 yards receiving per outing.

Locey spent the first two seasons at OSU working with the tight ends. In 2006 he coached senior Joe Newton, who earned postseason all-conference honors and competed in the Senior Bowl. Newton finished his career with the most touchdowns (15) ever for a Beaver tight end.

Locey is one of the most successful coaches in the history of small college football. The five-time Northwest Conference Coach of the Year led the Wildcats to the 2004 NCAA Division III title and in 10 years as the head coach, guided the program to a record of 84-18, including a streak of 41 consecutive wins.

During his tenure as head coach, Locey coached 16 All-Americans, led Linfield to its longest Northwest Conference unbeaten streak (23 games), and continued with the program's NCAA record consecutive winning seasons streak which stood at 50 at the end of 2005.

Locey was associated with Linfield for 23 years and experienced three national titles and 13 conference championships. In 2005 he was named one of the state's top 25 most influential sports people by The Oregonian and was selected the Division III Strength and Conditioning Coach of the Year.

Locey began his Linfield career in 1983 when he accepted the position of defensive coordinator, replacing current Oregon State head coach Mike Riley, who moved on to the Canadian Football League.

The 57-year-old native of Corvallis served as an assistant under a number of Northwest coaching legends, including Ad Rutschman, Bud Riley, Dee Andros, Tom Smythe and Chuck Solberg. His grandfather, Percy Locey, was a college football coach at the University of Denver and the athletic director at Oregon State (1937-47).

In addition to his coaching duties at Linfield, Locey was a full professor in the College of Health and Human Performance. He was an instructor for anatomical kinesiology and the principles of neuromuscular conditioning.

As a sophomore at Corvallis High School in 1970, he had the opportunity to play on the varsity football team that went undefeated and won the state championship. A reserve linebacker, he played special teams while learning under a special group of seniors that included Mike Riley, Gary Beck (OSU's FB Coordinator of Support Services), Don Reynolds, Jerry Hackenbruck and Kerry Eggers.

Locey earned a football scholarship to Oregon State. After starting just one game as a sophomore, he went on to receive Pacific-8 Conference First Team honors as a defensive back in 1976 and second team in 1975. Twice he was singled out as OSU's top student-athlete and received the outstanding senior award his final year. After an attempt at playing professional football in Canada, Locey returned to Oregon and embarked on a career in coaching. He served as a graduate assistant for one season at OSU before being hired by Smythe as a secondary coach at Lakeridge High School in Lake Oswego, Ore.

After four successful years at Lakeridge, Locey returned to his alma mater to coach with Beck while completing his master's degree at the University of Oregon (1983). Locey honed his coaching skills under Rutschman, and was a part of two NAIA national title teams in 1984 and 1986 before leading the Wildcats to the 2004 NCAA crown.

His family includes wife, Susan, and daughters Danika, Braelyn and Rachelle.

Gary Beck is in his eighth year on the staff at Oregon State and his sixth as Coordinator of Support Services. His role with the Beaver staff includes on-campus recruiting, serving as a liaison with the medical and strength conditioning staff, and NFL scouts, assists in the preparation of camps and opponent research, and assists incoming freshmen with OSU's Summer BEST Program.

Beck spent the 2006 and 2007 seasons as a graduate assistant, working with the running backs. He helped coach one of the Beavers' all-time great backs Yvenson Bernard, who finished his career sixth (at the time) in the Pac-10 for all-time rushing yards with 3,682.

Beck is among the most honored coaches in the history of high school football in the state of Oregon. During his prep football coaching career, Beck led Corvallis High School to a pair of state AAA titles (1979, '83) and to a state runner-up finish (1986). Corvallis won the Valley League title five times.

His postseason honors include being named the Valley League Coach of the Year five times and earning the Oregon AAA Coach of the Year three times. He was a head coach in the annual summer Shrine All-Star Game three times.

Beck also served as the head baseball coach at Corvallis for three seasons and the head boys golf coach for 10 years. He started his coaching career in 1976 as the junior varsity baseball coach at Oregon State University. Beck also served as an assistant football coach, freshman boys basketball coach and assistant baseball coach.

He came to Oregon State most recently in 2006 from Redmond High School in Central Oregon after two years as the defensive coordinator. During his entire high school coaching career he served as a physical education teacher.

Beck was a standout athlete at Corvallis High School during the same time frame as head coach Mike Riley. He played free safety and backup quarterback (behind Riley), helping the team to the 1970 state title. He also was a shortstop in baseball and a guard in basketball, assisting the team to the state title in '70.

Beck earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from OSU in 1976 and a master's in education from OSU in 1982. He was a four-year letterman in baseball for the Beavers and lettered on the varsity football team in 1972 as a free safety - his position coach was Riley's father, Bud.

Beck and his wife Vicki have two daughters, LeAnne and Michelle.
